

This protection will only make digital television more expensive and cumbersome for everyone involved, including the consumers, manufacturers and producers.